

Anthology of Natalie Chew

Presented by

My poetic Side

Dedication

To my husband.

Acknowledgement

I want to thank God for his inspiration and my husband for encouraging me to never give up.

About the author

Born in Jamaica, migrated to England at the age of eighteen and now reside in sunny California.

summary

You

Waiting

You

*A world so full of struggles
And your expected to be strong
Depression overwhelming
Questioning if you belong*

*Trying to break the chains
That bounds me to the suffering
Trying to learn how to breathe
When i feel like I'm suffocating*

*The walls are closing in
But my strength is resisting
I have something to fight for
My remedy to depression*

*You've always been the reason
That shines light through my darkness
There's no me without you
I'll protect you through the darkness*

*I know you suffer like me
Please know you are not alone
When your vision goes black
I'll be strong for us*

*I'll fight all the demons
And protect you from the fire
Hold you through the storm
And lay with you when your tired*

*Give guidance when you seek it
Love you how you need it
Kiss you how you like it
And annoy you because you love it.*

Waiting

*I stand in the rain
Feeling every drop that hits me
It ignites a torch in my heart
Like every time you kiss me*

*So proud of who you are
And honored your with me
Treat you like a King
And smile cuz you complete me*

*I'll fight for your honor
Protect you from the enemy
The first time I saw you
I fell in love instantly*

*My reason for breathing
My overall destiny
I'll never be able to rest
Until I have you next to me*

*Waiting my entire life
For the man that's best for me
You may have missed apart of me
But now you got the rest of me*

*Loyal to the end
Baby you got the recipe
A little sprinkle on my lips
I'm staring at you obsessively*

*Grab you by your body
Pull you real close to me
Everything you ever wanted
Just a little taste of me.*