

Anthology of Dave Stard

Presented by

My poetic Side

summary

Tales of the Heart ??

Tales of the Heart ??

Tales of the heart ??

Some tagged it proud, others call it wicked

But only a few took the time to understand

The silence of the mind invokes the watchful conscience

That caused a brainless consciousness

All to get an escape from their own interpretations

And there is the invite to join the feast

Since there's no where to run

They failed to realize this truth

You cannot kill a man who accepted death a risible divine gift with earthly curse

the course is meant to be passed

And the curse is to be snapped

In this discourse remember several paths leads to the village square

And only one path leads back home

A river cannot sustain itself aloof

Except there is consistent link to the source