Anthology of Jeff

Presented by

My poetic Side 🗣

About the author

Just a guy trying to keep my head up....

summary

| Goodbye |
|------------------------|
| Only In My Dreams |
| Warm Embrace |
| Slipped Too Far Away |
| True Lies |
| Hearts That Never Mend |
| To Whom It May Concern |
| What If |
| Night Trip |
| Love Is |
| The Evil In Us All |
| Painful Memory |
| I Found You |
| Just A Thought |
| Sated |
| Hidden Pain |
| True Lies II |
| Daily Struggles |
| Shadows In the Dark |
| I Wish |
| A Waste |
| Threads of Life |
| Drowned In Tears |
| |

| Finally | / |
|---------|---|
|---------|---|

The Future\'s End

Tomorrow\'s Dreams

Veil of Sorrows

I\'m Still In Love With You

Alone Again

Lost Within

Life On Hold

All I Need

Surrender

Fuel

Goodbye

The end has come for me today so I must say good-bye It may be hard to understand but I trust that you will try

My heart's so filled with emptiness controlled by misery I've finally seen that what I am was never meant to be

The tears I've cried so recently are for pain nobody knows
I just can't take it anymore it's time for me to go

Is life suppose to be this way with thoughts of suicide Or has my life become a loss with no one to confide

Does anybody understand the pain that fills my heart Or understand that all of this is tearing me apart

Concealment isn't optional for no one seems to care I hide within my shattered thoughts And I'm drowning in despair

My heart has grown so heavy and still I don't know why The end has come for me today and I must say good-bye

Only In My Dreams

Each night I get to hold you close
If only in my dreams
You wrap your love around my heart
While lying next to me

To say I love you is not enough It's more than just these words It goes beyond one single thought And anything you've heard

I watch the moonlight touch your face As I gently kiss your cheek I wonder if its me you see When you're smiling in your sleep

Although this dream will surely end And I know I'll have to wake With all the ways you've touched my heart Its almost more than I can take

I count the days this dream comes true And your love is here with me But until that day I'll hold you tight If only in my dreams

Warm Embrace

I cant escape the loneliness, Which haunts me deep inside Theres no one I can turn to, And nowhere left to hide

For years I have been tortured by, These thoughts within my head My sanity slips far away, With every tear I shed

Control beyond my hopefulness, And peace so far from sight I hate these waking thoughts I have, And dread the dreams each night

Can Death secure my restlessness, The grave relieve my fears Must I continue hating life, Through my remaining years

Surely Deaths a blessed end, From all the pain I feel The misery within my heart, Can never be concealed

I've reached the point of no return, Too great is all my pain I pray for Death to take my soul, Before I go insane

Slipped Too Far Away

This fragile hold I have on life, Is slipping far away I can't escape the misery, Which plagues me everyday

Emotions rage through bitter thoughts, That haunt my every move Though all is veiled in constant dread, There's nothing I can do

While visions dance across my mind, These fears have taken hold That hate and anger are to blame, For my heart turning to stone

I feel I'm chained to pain and sorrow, And locked within despair The dread I hold within this heart, I'd never wish to share

For who could handle shattered dreams, That long for brighter days Since this fragile hold I had on life, Has slipped too far away

True Lies

I was sitting in the park one day in the shade underneath a tree When I saw this little squirrel come up and sit right next to me

I watched it sit there for a while then I offered it some bread He looked around then looked at me 'no thanks' I thought he said

I knew I must be hearing things so I said 'say that again' He said 'I said no thank you' and I about jumped out my skin

Squirrels aren't suppose to talk or at least that's what I thought But he asked me for a cigarette and said that'd mean alot

I thought, this can't be happening it had to be some kind of joke But I was sure I heard this little squirrel just ask me for a smoke

So I gave the squirrel a cigarette then sat and watched in awe When he was done he told me thanks and stuck out his little paw

I shook his paw and left the park I'm not sure if he's still there Everyone says I imagined it but he asked me for a square

My doctor thinks I dreamed it all but I swear that it's the truth If you don't believe my words ask the pigeon he smoked one too

Hearts That Never Mend

Last night I dreamed of muted sounds where echoes have no end Which came from sorrows people face with hearts that never mend

They follow down the path that leads through shadows of despair Beyond the stream of tears they've cried to the field that leads nowhere

Where the sobs are only memories that haunt without a word
And bring to life the distant past of voices never heard

But in the forest of the lost are trees of lonesome pain Which mark the passing of the ones who've ever loved in vain

To escape you must remember that Death's your only friend From all the sorrow's people face with hearts that never mend

To Whom It May Concern

When I die don't mourn for me for God has called me home To walk with Him and talk with Him along the streets of gold

When thoughts of me DO cross your mind rejoice for now I'm free To walk along the pure white sand beside the crystal sea

When I look down from up above I hope to see you smile Remember that we'll be apart for just a little while

I'll wait for you at Heaven's door with arms opened wide To welcome you to paradise and all that waits inside

What If....

What if people took the time to watch the setting sun Or listen to the gentle sound of a river water run

What if people showed the love they feel that THEY deserve Or hold back words they want to say if they know it only hurts

What if people chose to give instead of only take
Or lend a hand to those in need when times become too great

What if people felt the pain from those of us who've lost Or those who've given all they have no matter what the cost

What if people lived each day as if it were their last Or looked towards the future to overcome their past

What if people walked a mile in the shoes of someone else Or thought about how others feel instead of just themselves

What if people read these lines and took each word to heart

What if.....

Night Trip

I took a trip last night into my dreams
To a place that I'm sure no one has seen
The sky was black as the darkest of nights
But everything else was a spectrum of light

With no one around but still voices I hear
When all of a sudden a doorway appeared
A sign on the door said welcome, come in
And that's where the story of this journey begins

When I turned the knob and pushed open the door I almost stepped in when I noticed no floor I heard a voice tell me "do not be afraid"
"This is a journey of the choices you made"

"You see life is a journey that everyone takes
And your judged in this world by the choices you make
You had the choice to do wrong or right
You chose to do wrong and stand there and fight"

"So now close your eyes and enter this room And witness events to your upcoming doom" I shut my eyes and I walked through the air When I looked to the left a doorway was there

I opened the door and started to scream
I wanted to wake from this terrible dream
What I saw in that room will haunt me for life
It was the bodies of my children and my beautiful wife

I screamed at the voice "why did you bring me here" He said," it is time to face your worse fear Now go to your family and look in their eyes" But I couldn't move and I started to cry

Finally I walked over till I came to my son I couldn't do anything the damage was done I looked in his eyes and saw what he'd seen The moment he died he was crying for me

Each child that I went to their eyes were the same
Before each one of them died they cried out my name
I couldn't take anymore so I asked," could we go"
He said," not quite yet there's something else I must show"

"You see, you left them behind when you went to jail"

"But I hadn't a choice" I started to yell

"Then who made the choice when you committed that crime"

"So then why punish them if the fault was all mine"

"They died whenever you spun out of control Cause you were responsible when you took on the role Of father and husband to the family you see That is laying before you and will no longer be"

"So what will it be the choice is on you
But remember your choices could make this come true
You have the choice to forget what you've seen
And continue your life the way that you please"

"Just remember the choices you make for yourself Not only affect you they affect someone else So now I shall leave you to let you decide And I hope that all this has made you realize"

"It's not only on you when you choose the wrong road Your family and friends have to help carry the load" When I finally woke up I just started to grin I was given the chance to change this journey's end

This was an actual dream that I had while sitting in jail, so I wrote it down. It isn't a very good one as far as rhythm, but I like the story and the message.

Love Is....

Love is giving all you have to make their life complete And never making promises you don't intend to keep

Love is sometimes letting go in hopes that they'll return And if it wasn't meant to be hold on to what you've learned

Love is being by their side no matter what the cost For without them your hopes and dreams are all but lost

Love is sometimes all we have in a world so dark and cold And need a place to warm ourselves with someone there to hold

Love is having everything when you hold them in your arms And taking every step you can to keep them safe from harm

Love is what I learn from you each and every day All my love I give to you and that will never fade

Love is what I needed most to heal a shattered life And all my dreams I found in you when you became my wife

The Evil In Us All

I've been called by many things, But Evil is my name I live within the hearts of men, Where hatred stays the same

I'm sure you think you know me, But I'm not the man you see I'm only just a figment of, Your own insanity

I prey upon your darkest fear, And feed on all your pain I shatter every dream you've had, Til nothing else remains

I'll slowly take your very life, Just one breath at a time And destroy all that which makes you you Til everything is mine

Even though I'm not alone, So many take the fall The only thing we have to fear, Is the Evil in us all

Painful Memory

I never will forget the day my world came crashing down It happened out on highway 6 just right outside of town

My wife and I were headed home after dinner and a show When a truck who crossed the center line gave me nowhere else to go

When I hit the ditch doing 65 all I heard was Tammy scream Everything around me slowed like I'd stepped into a dream

We must have rolled at least 6 times though I'm sure that it was more Then I asked my wife if she was hurt as I opened up my door

If she answered me I couldn't hear for the ringing in my head So I came around to check on her and realized she was dead

It'll be a year tomorrow when my life came to an end I not only lost my wife that day but also my best friend

But tonight we'll be as one again of this I have no doubt As I place her picture on my chest and the barrel in my mouth

My final thoughts upon this earth will be of the only love I found Because I never could forget the day my world came crashing down

I Found You

I have felt the sorrows which have torn my world apart And picked up shattered pieces of my lonely broken heart

I have tasted tears I feel no one should have to cry And been the tortured victim of such cruel and pointless lies

I have roamed the streets not knowing what on earth to do But all that pain has ended since the day that I found you

Since I found you I feel the love that sets my world apart And never felt the perfect joy I have within your heart

Since I found you I've tasted tears that all should get to cry And every day I see the love I need within your eyes

Since I found you I still remember all that I went through But all my pain has ended since the day that I found you

Just A Thought

These haunted dreams which I hold dear are ghosts within my mind Reminding me of better days in another place and time

I can't escape the tortured past with all these vivid thoughts And everything explodes inside from all the pain it's wrought

I've tried to leave them in the past but failed another try So I embrace the hurt and pain with tears I hate to cry

I've asked the Lord to take my life but still I roam these halls A shell of who I use to be these memories on the wall

So all that I look forward to is finally being free To take my final breath I feel that's all that's left for me

Sated

Patiently waiting I am alone, standing on the edge of ecstasy, balancing in the dark. The night breeze blows and from it comes a memory.

A memory of your beautiful smile, I say your name and the echoes return the same..... In the church of my senses, I am baptized in your beauty.

My soul saved and reborn through your touch, satisfying my temptation, though you have only smiled at me. For now dreams of you quench my thirst.....

I just never knew I could drink this much

Hidden Pain

I fight hate with every breath concealed in self-control
Beneath the surface Evil haunts the peace within my soul

These tortured thoughts which fill my head are tearing me apart
From deep within I feel the pain of questions in my heart

My peace of mind is faltering but how long shall it last Before I relive all the pains within my tortured past

The battle rages inwardly to mask constant deceit Transformations of the soul are all but incomplete

I'm stuck between the man I am and who I use to be My attempts at peace are useless since I'm bound by misery

All the terrors and the pain have finally taken hold
As I fight hate with every breath concealed in self-control

True Lies II

I remember it all clearly now, The words he spoke to me They all came from this bird I saw, Sitting high up in that tree

At first I thought I'd lost my mind, Just listening to this bird But not too long into his tale, I hung on every word

The tale that he relayed to me, Was filled with drugs and crime And ended with a friend of his, In prison doing time

It started in a park he said,
Just a couple of years ago
He never named the park he meant,
But said that I would know

His friend was walking down this path, When he came across this man Who sat beneath a big shade tree, With a cigarette in his hand

He asked the man for a cigarette, Then he smoked it then and there He said the only reason that he did, Cause a pigeon double dared

From that day on he couldn't stop, He was smoking more and more And to get his fix for nicotine, He started robbing liquor stores

Then, when cigarettes no longer worked, He switched to dip and chew And swore he'd hit the hard stuff, Before he was ever through

The cops already knew his name, By the time he was finally stopped And they sentenced him to life without, Inside a local mall's pet shop

I'm sure this tale seems out of place,

Or to you may seem a joke
But its as real as anything could be,
To the friend of which he spoke

That friend has thrown away his life, I'm sure he must regret All because he took a dare, To smoke one cigarette

Daily Struggles

Lord I've grown so weary since my life got out of hand These trials and tribulations are just more than I can stand

How much longer must I wait for the life I choose to live And how long must I pay you back for all the things I've did

Must I suffer through this life just a victim of the game Most times it seems I'll leave this world with nothing but the pain

Although I struggle constantly with demons I can't shake I pray each night before I sleep that tomorrow I will not wake

Lord I hope you hear my plea and grant my final wish Whatever life is after death can't be as bad as this

I've done my best to face them all and take it like a man But now I've grown too weary since my life got out of hand

Shadows In the Dark

With peace a distant memory and love so far removed I fear I must retreat inside the sanctum of my tomb

As tortured voices call to me I ponder at the door Shall I release my hold on life of this I must implore

Since forgiveness seems so silent and my sorrows seem so loud My thoughts escape detection as I face the maddening crowd

But hope remains my company as darkness turns from light All my dreams have disappeared like birds thats taken flight

I marvel at the mysteries which shadows ushered in The halls of pain within my Hell have started once again

I scream surrender in my soul with nothing left to prove With peace a distant memory and love so far removed

I Wish

I wish I could have brought you joy but instead I've brought you grief And broke your heart with promises that were just beyond my reach

I wish I could take back those words which caused you so much pain And replaced them with the memories where only love remains

I wish I could make dreams come true so you could wish on every star And embrace the magic on the night you hold within your arms

I wish I could have taken time to wipe away your tears And surround your heart with happiness to alleviate your fears

I wish I could have been the one who fulfilled your fantasies And been the one to encourage you to follow all your dreams

I wish I could have listened more with patience in my heart And held you closer to my side as we lay there in the dark

I wish I could have thought of this when at first you got with me Before I broke your heart with promises that were just beyond my reach

A Waste

Today began as many do a waste of precious breath Have I the strength to see it through or is there any left

These struggles seem to multiply within each passing day As hope and dreams turn into lies my faith slips far away

What do I do to gain the peace that somehow I can't find Will then these demons finally cease and restore this shattered mind

I need to know what happens next for all I know is pain should I just end this misery before I go insane

Can anybody save me from these ghosts within my head As today begins as many do a waste of time and breath

Threads of Life

In the tapestry that we call life we're but a single thread So when one dies we cannot let a single tear be shed

For all things have a certain flow whether slow or fast We're intertwined with future times and time already past

Every person on this earth impacts each others lives For you to truly comprehend look through anothers eyes

Then maybe you will finally see we're all in this together If we try to help each other out this world just might get better

Instead of violence show some love and see what that might bring For peace and joy go hand in hand overcoming anything

If we teach the children of this world that hate is not the way Then we must start that lesson now so peace can reign someday

For a world where all can finish first and no one left behind Since the true at heart can only be the future of mankind

Drowned In Tears

My heart weighs heavy on my soul, For both are drowned in tears The endless struggle in myself, Made worse throughout these years

I walk along this path to Hell, While Deaths upon His throne Beneath a sky as black as night, This stranger goes alone

I hear the wails of those who've lost, And again....will never be As waves of crimson pound the shore, Then crash back to the sea

Frozen in the place I stand, My voice a silent scream I fear this time I may not wake, To end this tortured dream

As nightmares rage all hope is lost, My mind can't take the pain So I battle with these Evil thoughts, But never speak their name

For just to voice such Evil words, Could never be survived And would bring the gates of Hell itself, Upon a persons life

Though I run and run to escape the hold,
Of Death and all my fears
My heart weighs heavy on my soul,
For both have drowned in tears

Finally

Shall I concede my hold on life give in to Death's embrace Since peace of mind within myself can never be replaced

All pleasures I once had for life are deep within the past The grip on my own sanity has started fading fast

I feel I'm destined in this life to suffer through it all With misery my only friend I know I'll take the fall

I've tried so hard to rise above the heartache life gives out But nothing seems to remedy the cause of my own doubt

My self-control is plummeting with every day I wake Soon it will be over when my life I finally take

For Death to me is heaven compared to staying here To wake up one more day on earth is the only thing I fear

The Future\'s End

I travel down this fated road my future carved in stone It seems I'm destined in this life to walk it all alone

There's no one who can feel my pain or know my misery
I wait for Death to take my hand since nothing's left for me

My tortured soul keeps searching for the comfort in the end Since loneliness and emptiness have been my only friend

The peace of mind within myself can never be replaced I long to feel the gentle touch within it's warm embrace

Will the whispering still echo inside my haunted heart While the distant memories of the past keep tearing me apart

Constantly I 've had to fight with demons of my own
So I travel down this fated road my future carved in stone

Tomorrow\'s Dreams

The whispered voice of yesterday can wake tomorrow's dreams Since all it takes is one true heart who truly will believe

For nothing is impossible with faith inside your heart And inner strength through peacefulness is one place you should start

Though hearts are where the dreams may live their born within the mind To follow them would bring us all to a better place in time

Though some think dreams are foolish they fail to see the light My own beliefs are clear to see as day is from the night

I hope you live your dreams each day no matter what they are Just plant your feet on solid ground but reach for every star

For without dreams what do we have but a world of in betweens Cause the whispered voice of yesterday can wake tomorrow's dreams

Veil of Sorrows

I pass beyond the veil of sorrow to knock on heaven's door And see you waiting there for me across the distant shore

The waves retreat to crash again upon the darkened sand I scream your name without a sound but just don't understand

I'm watching tears stream down your face and wish this nightmare through I lived my life and also death Just to give it all to you

As thoughts run rampant in my mind and lights regress to dark The pain I feel goes far beyond the depths within my heart

It reaches down into my soul and burns eternal flames I whisper now forever more the mysteries of your name

Shall Death relieve my inner pain to torture me no more As I pass beyond the veil of sorrow and knock on heaven's door

I\'m Still In Love With You

When you told me you no longer loved me I slowly went out of my mind I've been promised that all wounds will heal if just given a little time

But whoever said that's mistaken and nothing is further from true Cause it's been awhile since you walked out and girl I'm still in love with you

I thought that we had something special had a bond that nobody could break I guess I was just being foolish and that wasn't my only mistake

But you broke my heart when you walked out baby you broke it right in two So I'll try to pick up the pieces from still being in love with you

Sometimes my heart starts to hurting and I'm wanting to cry out your name But I know if I were to give in I'd just be causing myself more pain

So I fight back all my emotions but sometimes it's just so hard to do No matter what my mind tries to tells me girl I'm still in love with you

......I wrote this in 2001...and borrowed the music of Best of Intentions by Travis Tritt for the flowso be gentle lol

Alone Again

Alone again I hear the voice That screams inside my head Telling me the brutal truth That its better if I'm dead

For many years I've tried to fight While hoping for my Death I pray that peace will find me, when I draw my final breath

My Death is all I have to give Now that all my dreams have fled So I'll give into these voices That scream inside my head

Lost Within

In this troubled heart I've found no peace to call my own My tortured mind won't let me give the love I want to show

I'm doing all I know to do to let go of my pain With every effort that I make it never seems to change

I'm trapped within these darkened thoughts that's locked inside a tomb With no way out I face the fear that madness will insue

What must I do to conquer all the demons haunting me I struggle with the grasp I had on my own sanity

With thoughts like mine it's really hard to function everyday God, please just free my mind again before I go insane

Life On Hold

Time is passing so slowly.....

Facing the future armed with uncertainty,
I pray the absence of normality makes everyday the same.
No longer to deny my mistakes,
I know where to place the blame.

So I try to make the best of this situation, stripped of all my dignity, still I maintain my frustration deep within my mind. Behind these bars I am able to keep my sanity.

For however long this must be, my time will be spent focusing on tomorrow... Forgetting about yesterday.... while remembering to smile today.

Please be gentle.... This was written back in 1992...while in jail facing a 50 year sentence. .. One of the first written.

All I Need

I know sometimes I fail to say,
The words you want to hear
And I know at times I've been the one,
To cause so many tears

I know that I don't let you know, Just what you mean to me But I promise you this simple fact, You're all I ever need

Though I know some doubts still linger, From a past which I regret And I know I'll never be the same, As I was when we first met

I know it took me quite awhile, But now I finally see And I promise you this simple truth, You're all I ever need

I know my life means nothing now, If I don't have you to hold And I know I owe you everything, So I give my heart and soul

I know that you deserve much more, Than I could ever be So I can promise you this simple fact, You're all I'll EVER need

Surrender

I hear the voice of whispered dreams, Which echoed long ago The distant thunder shakes the ground, As the fear within me grows

The voice approaches steadily, As fires form in Its wake I turn to flee on legs of stone, Theres no more I can take

The world beneath me opens up, As struggling...I run But mournful cries of tortured souls, Has only just begun

I force myself to continue on,
As terror fills my mind
With fear and hope my only friends,
I pray that I'll survive

Hands of Death have reached for me, For all these dreaded years I feel the wounds of loneliness, As I wipe away the tears

I slowly stop and face the End, My head held ever high With peace of mind I reach for Him, No longer scared to die....

Fuel

The rage embraced in heart and soul, Has fueled my inner pain While thoughts consume my restlessness, No hope in me remains

I've fought control and wrestled with, These dreams within my mind But nothing seems to remedy, This hurt I feel inside

Would Death relieve my weariness, And give me peace anew Or will it start to fade away, As thoughts turn back to you

Does loneliness and misery, Consist of all my friends Or will tomorrow bring to me, The beginning of the end

I'm bound to die a broken man, With nothing left to gain As rage embraced in heart and soul, Has fueled my inner pain